Realistic anatomy

The DIANA dress form's torso conforms to a real female figure. The torso has actual lumbar deflection, correct shoulders and posture, well-defined collarbones, and shoulder blades. The dress form's mammary glands are shaped and positioned to match the actual female breast.

The groin area and the arch of the crotch seam correspond to the size, which it is possible to model, try on and demonstrate swimwear, bodysuits, underwear, trousers on the dress form.

Dress form torso materials

The base of the torso is made of polyurethane foam. The torso is resilient and easily takes on its original shape after compression. The cast monolithic base is resistant to the effects of needles, moisture, and temperature. Fits perfectly for steam ironing and draping. Inside the torso, there is a hidden system of fastening on the stand, which prevents the dress form from loosening and deforming, even with prolonged use.

The DIANA cover is made of dense cotton twill weave. On the back of the cover, there is a zipper for removing the cover. Your choice of cover color: neutral flesh beige and inky black with contrasting stitching of construction lines.

DIANA dress form purpose

You can use professional dress form DIANA for:

- pressing and ironing on it;
- trying on garments;
- balance checks;
- draping;
- demonstration of ready-made outfits.

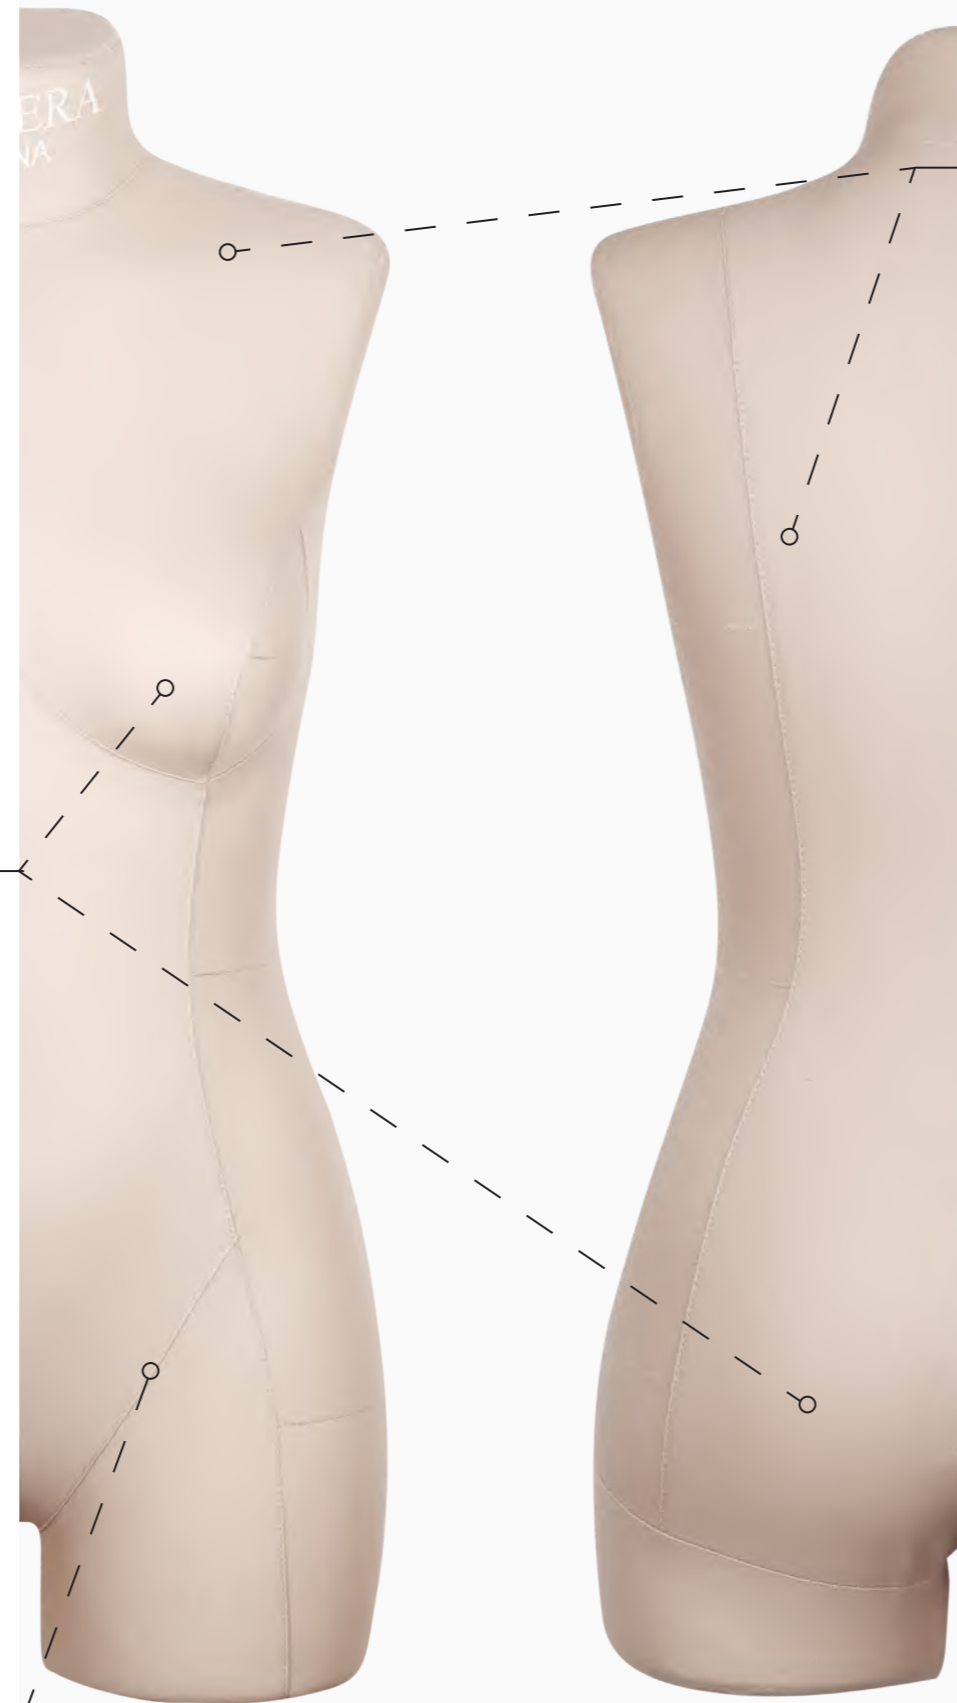

The scope of use of the DIANA torso is practically unlimited. The dress form is ideal for sewing anything from underwear and corsets to outerwear. A wide range of sizes allows you to choose DIANA for individual tailoring for any typical figure. Anatomically and quality of workmanship make DIANA an excellent choice for ateliers, workshops, and industries — the dress form can withstand long-term use and will replace tedious fitting on models. In addition to sewing, DIANA will also help in demonstrating finished products live and in photos.

DIANA in detail

The posture of the dress form and the curves of the body are as close as possible to real female figures. The anatomical shape of the chest and buttocks, correct posture.

The beginning of the torso legs is built taking into account typical figures; the arc of the step seam corresponds to the size. This structural feature makes sewing underwear, swimwear, and waistband products much more convenient.

DIANA repeats all the features of the relief: there are clavicles and shoulder blades.

In the Diana size range, in addition to standard sizes, there are intermediate ones. ■

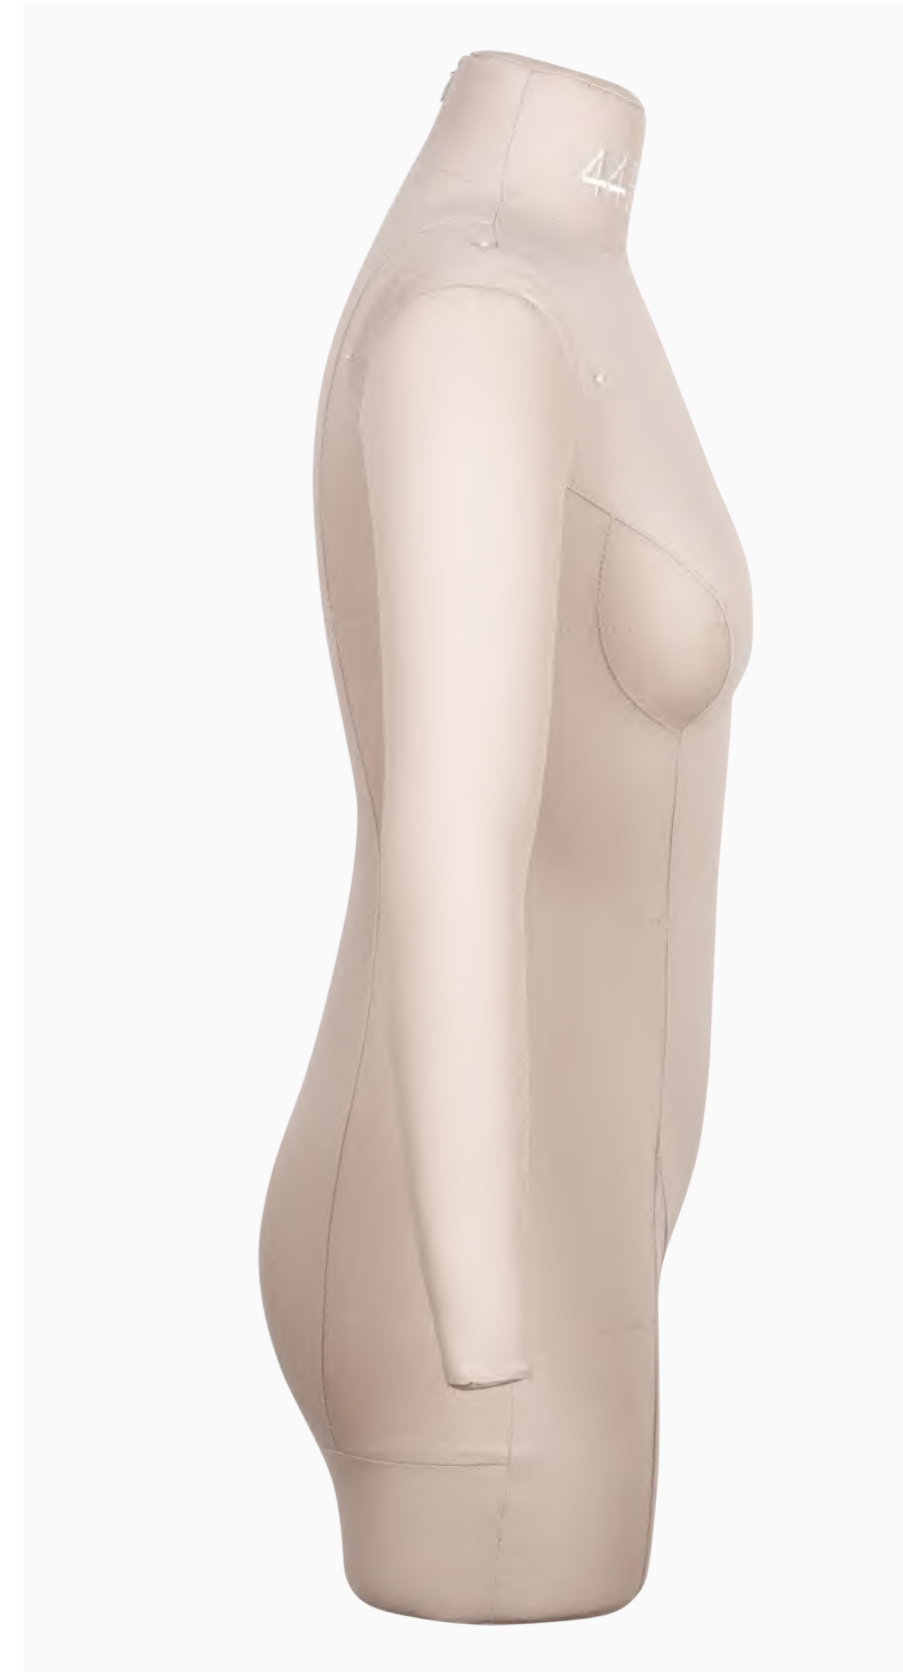

Cover color: beige and black

With the convenience of a beige shade in its neutrality, the material does not distract attention from the product. The black case with contrasting stitching is eye-catching and helps to create accents in the frame or indoors.

Reproduces the anatomical features of the relief: clavicle, shoulder blades, navel, fossa over the buttocks.

The shape of the mammary glands is fully consistent with the real female breast.

Actual lumbar deflection and correct posture.

Matching crotch arch for easy sewing of underwear and swimwear.

The shape and roundness of the buttocks and thighs correspond to real female figures.

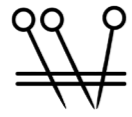

The flat base of the torso allows the dress form to be positioned on the table without a stand.

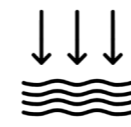

The porous structure of the base allows for quick recovery after compression.

The pins can be injected to the full depth of the torso at any angle.

The soft material allows you to grip the torso when removing and donning tight-fitting garments.

Resistant to steam and temperature, it fits perfectly for steam ironing.
